

Not only do I not want a weaker no-call law, I want a stronger one. I am partially disabled and require a nap every day. I do not want calls -- of any sort -- to disturb me. I do not give to charity, I do not respond to sales pitches of any kind. I was particular disturbed during the fall of 2004 with the dozens of political calls to my home. I am over 65, confined to my home most of the time, have a disabled driver tag for the times when I have doctor appointments or need to shop and I do not drive at night so I am at home then also. Maybe this should be a special category for those of us with special problems -- Do Not Call For Any Reason.
